This Appendix covers two kinds of notes written about psychotherapy—progress notes and psychotherapy notes—and highlights the practical value of this important distinction. Progress notes are part of the client record or file, as noted below. Psychotherapy notes are not part of the file. After an overview of the client file or record, the difference between these two kinds of notes is discussed along with guides for writing progress notes.

Progress Notes and Psychotherapy Notes

Conceptualizing a case systemically can be challenging, because of the many family members and influences that are relevant to our work with clients. In the practicum courses I teach, students are required to write a case summary and present the case to the class. In this post, I
